DEATH'S DOINGS

Two Prominent Citizens of Marion County Have Passed From Labor Into RestJohn Walker Vogt—third son of Col. Jesse L. Vogt, killed at Chestnut Ridge, in front of Atlanta, August 3, 1864, and Nancy Vogt, daughter of Sylvanus Walker, of Green county, Ga., —was born in Hancock county, Ga., on the 4th day of October, 1857. He was educated at Mt. Zion, Ga., a school conducted by ex-Governor Northern, of Georgia, and at Ocala, Fla., at the East Florida Seminary. He was the only living brother of Albertus Vogt, of phosphate and oil fame. In 1889, he came to Dunnellon, and in November of that year he was married to the beautiful and accomplished daughter (Maggie) of Mr. and Mrs. William Vassie, of Hamilton, Ontario. Three children are living from their union.
Addie, a girl of ten, Willie, seven, and John W. Jr., five years old.On Sunday, the 11th instant, at 11 o'clock a. m., he passed away. In his life time he had been largely interested in phosphate, mercantile and banking interests of Florida. He leaves a large insurance in that most reliable company, the Manhattan Life of New York, besides large landed interests in Marion and Levy counties.The remains were interred in the family graveyard near his residence Monday, with Rev. C. C. Gaines of Lebanon, officiating.—Dunnellon Citizen.The deceased had many friends in Ocala, where he resided for a short time some six years ago, having purchased the lively stable formerly conducted by Capt. E. B. Richardson. He disposed of this property and returned to his plantation west of Dunnellon.
To the widow and children of the deceased, the Star extends sympathy and condolence, which is shared by the many friends of the late John W.
Vogt. Peace to his ashes.

George Hargraves

Mr. George Hargraves, one of Dunnellon's oldest citizens, breathed his last on Sunday, the 11th instant, about 10 a. m., and was buried at Lebanon cemetery on Monday. He was born in England in 1846. He was a resident of Levy county for a number of years, and came to Dunnellon in 1893, almost without a dollar, but being full of energy and wide-awake to business, he soon accumulated a good deal of real estate, and at the time of his death had some forty houses in the town, all renting for snug sums.The deceased was married a little over three years ago to Mrs. N. A. Ca-son, who has the sympathy of the entire community in this her hour of sore bereavement.—Dunnellon Citizen.The deceased was a friend of many years standing with the editor of the Star, who read with deep regret of his sudden death. To his bereaved widow we extend condolence and sympathy.
